AMED is a unique bibliographic database produced by the Health Care Information Service of the British Library. This alternative medicine database is designed for physicians, therapists, medical researchers and clinicians looking to learn more about alternative treatments. Contained within this database are basic bibliographic records for relevant articles from more than 590 journals. Abstracts are also included for many records, dating back to 1995.

AMED indexes many journals that offer access to full-text articles. Some journals are completely free and others offer part of their archives as free full text. Links from AMED to these journals are available as part of your database subscription.

AMED offers you seamless linking to these free full-text articles hosted by providers like HighWire, PubMed Central, DOAJ and J-STAGE. Simply click on the Full Text link offered with the results returned by Ovid. There are free full-text articles available for over 190 journals indexed in AMED- see below for a list of the journals with the most articles indexed in the database.
